

SERGIO FABBRINI

Sergio Fabbrini is Professor of Political Science and International Relations, Intesa Sanpaolo Chair on European Governance and Head of the Political Science Department at the Luiss Guido Carli in Rome. He was the Pierre Keller Visiting Professor at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government 2019-2020 and Recurrent Visiting Professor at UC Berkeley. He was Jemolo Fellow at the Nuffield College, Oxford University and Jean Monnet Chair Professor at the Robert Schuman Center for Advanced Studies, European University Institute in Florence. He lectured in several international universities and won several prizes. He published twenty books, co-authored two books and edited or co-edited twenty books or journals' special issues, as well as several hundred scientific articles and essays in seven languages in the most important international peer-reviewed journals. His recent publications in English include: Europe's Future: Decoupling and Reforming, Cambridge, Cambridge University Press, 2019; Which European Union? Europe After the Euro Crisis, Cambridge, Cambridge University Press, 2015; Compound Democracies: Why the United States and Europe Are Becoming Similar, Oxford, Oxford University Press, 2010 (second and revised edition); America and Its Critics: Vices and Virtues of the Democratic Hyperpower, Cambridge, Polity Press, 2008. He is considered one of the most authoritative scholars on European and comparative politics and institutions.