

Valentina Meliciani is Full Professor of Applied Economics at Luiss Guido Carli University where she is also Director of the Luiss Institute for European Analysis and Policy (LEAP). She has a PhD from SPRU (Sussex University) and a Doctorate from the University of Rome “Tor Vergata”. She has been Visiting Fellow at SPRU, Visiting Scholar at the University of Minnesota and Visiting Professor at the London School of Economics and at Sciences Po, Paris. She has published in international refereed journals in the fields of Industrial, International and Regional Economics and Economics of Innovation, and has worked in EU-funded research projects on the social and economic changes created by the new information-based economy.